35 CENTS A SINGLE NUMBER. With the January number, the regular re-solication of the Edinburgh Review has been commenced, and it will beneaforth appear, di-ectly after its receipt in this country, in hand-come double extra numbers of the New World wspaper. Of the history and high repute this great periodical, little need to be related to the reader, who, possesses the slight out tamiliarity with the late author of the 10-h century. It has of late years owed its chief attractions to the brilliant and powerful articles of Lord Brougham and Thomas Babbing-tos Mazauly; but it has boasted contributions from the pone of Walter Scott, Thomas Moore, William Wordsworth, Dr. Paley, Dugald Stewart, and a host of other great authors. Their successors in the Review shough inferior in reputation, are scarcely in learning and talent-for the most profound and eminent scholars in irest British are now employed to supply its pages.

Its former editor, Lord Jeffreys, is now the most datinguished Judge on the heach of Scotland, and it has recently been coodnated by no less a personage than Col. Napier, author of the History of the Penensular War.
